GRANGE MEETING

The bi-monthly meeting of the Mattapoisett Grange held last Thursday at the Grange hall was conducted by the worthy master, Mrs. Mildred LeBaron.

Joseph Bradford, deputy of the State Grange, was the honored guest. Mr. Bradford spoke of the National Grange coming to Worcester in November of 1961 and urged a growth in membership of the Subordinate Grange, so that a large class of Massachusetts' members can have the advantage of taking the 7th degree of the order. It has been a great many years since this State has had the honor of entertaining the National Grange.

The Home and Community Service table was presided over by Mrs. Gladys Pearson, who had "favorite recipes" for sale, and also conducted a "Happy Birthday" march for those having birthdays the past month. Mrs. Margarite Vaughn of this committee distributed "waist measure bags" for a money making project. Mrs. Ruby Barber reported on the card party held in her home, another project of this committee.

Joseph Furtado reported on agriculture explaining the need to those having strawberry beds on how to winter cover them. A report of the successful grange whist party was given by Otto Kellish.

The Lecturer's program was conducted by Mrs. Barbara Heuberger, who presented Miss Barbara Nichols of Westboro. She gave a most interesting talk with pictures, taking her audience on a trip to Germany that she had

HOW TO GET TO THE TOP

In the great chain of mountains known as the Himalayas there is a king of mountains. Everest soars to a height of 5½ miles. You recall that on May 29th in 1954 an expedition led by Col. Henry C. J. Hunt from the British Isles conquered the mountain for the first and only time. The experience of the many brave men who had attempted and failed to reach the summit contributed mightily to the choosing of the most favorable route. The team led by Col. Hunt labored to establish 3 different base camps on the face of the mountain packing the supplies on their backs. When the camps were finished the final assault teams were chosen on the basis of strength. The men who had stood the great altitude the best, and were therefore the strongest, were rested and given the chance for the summit. Edmund P. Hillary of New Zealand and Tensing Norkay, a Nepalese from India clawed their way up with strength and raw courage to stand on the roof of the earth, the top of the world. Those are the two names we recall. The rest of the team had sacrificed personal fame in the team effort to give these two men the best chance for success. Even as they remain anonymous to most of us, they share the credit for the victory equally with Hillary and Tensing.

Let us suppose that there lived in the territory at the base of the mountain a politician. A liberal man who burned with a desire to do great things for the common man. He would see the injustice in the fame of these two uncommon men who had reached the height literally on the backs of other men. There were the porters who moved the supplies to the base of the mountain, the native climbers who scaled the lower heights carrying the same supplies higher, the other members of the assault team who wore themselves out establishing the base camps in the highest points and the rest of the population who had no part in the expedition, no taste for the climb but only a great envy of the glory. This man would plan a program to help these masses to the glory. He would campaign on the platform that all men, regardless of strength, skill, determination or effort, should stand on top of the world. There would be expenses, of course, but a few new taxes spread over the generations to come, plus an increased rate of national growth, plus a change in the amount of national debt, would bring in the era of great challenge in the march toward the New Sunrise. Naturally the election would be no contest for these are the words of a leader of men. He would be chosen.

Demolition experts, bulldozer crews, steam shovel operators, rock crushers would be pressed into the greatest crash program the world has ever known. In the end, the rubble and dust that once was Everest would be rolled into a great flat plateau and blacktopped. After the escalators were installed, a million people would stand shoulder to shoulder on the summit. The trouble is that the thrill would be gone. These multitudes would be standing on the summit of a molehill looking up at the next mountain, which is now the top of the world. With the best of intentions, our great hate to pay.

In the beginning, this country was blessed with men of genius who put together a constitution that must stand as a peak in guaranteeing the rights and freedom of the individual. Through the years we have had lesser men, chipping away at it, proving that is is easier to destroy than create. If a mountain is brought down in easy stages, hardly anyone notices the shrinkage. On December 1st a British author-scientist named C. P. Snow lectured at Harvard University. He advocated that scientists be diffused through our government. His reason, "scientists have it within them to know what a future-directed society feels like." He labeled the Communist nations "future directed societies" in contrast to the Western nations which he said were becoming "existential" societies. "We seem to be flexible, but we haven't any model of the future before us," he said. When a man lectures in this fashion in a great American University it is an indication that the dynamite and the bulldozers are moving on the mountain. It is time we had some American fanatics to declare our faith in our system of free enterprise and to fight every assault on our constitution which would change it to this "future directed soceity" of Communism. It is high time that we had some American patriots lecturing at American Universities. It is time to fight the welfare state that is the escalator to Communism.

of the Presto. Life magazine is now running a series of articles on the discoveries of scientists in the IGY program. One of the studies concerned the sun, magnetism and northern light activity. It described the red northern light as extremely rare. This color being produced when the energy in atoms of oxygen are boosted by electrons.

The picture in the article shows the red light high in the sky which fades to a light green in the lower sky. In the lights seen over Mattapoisett there was no green but a dome of red which was quite deep in color. If you saw these lights you might be interested in looking up the article in the November 28th issue of Life Magazine.

VA CAMPAIGN

The clanging bells of the familiar sidewalk Christmas campaign of the Volunteers of America are being heard once more throughout the city.

Red chimneys will reappear at busy street corners and shopping centers to collect funds which will be used to provide free Christmas dinners and other holiday aid for the needy.

More than 200 Christmas baskets were given out last year. The organization also provided a variety of winter relief to hundreds of other men, women and children, according to Hal Hughes, post executive officer. At least the same number of needy, and probably more, will need some form of help this winter.

The Volunteers of America will have more than 2,000 sidewalk chimneys in cities from Boston to the Pacific Coast. Some of the cities have Sidewalk Santas to help collections.

The 64-year-old organization, headed nationally by Gen. John F. McMahon, commander-in-chief, has a broad program of emergency aid to families and individuals.

Here in New Bedford, the Volunteers of America program emphasizes relief and welfare work.

Many of the Sidewalk Santas and solicitors while working to help others, often are being helped themselves. Since many are victims of hard luck, serving as Santa Clauses frequently brings them renewed self-respect and confidence -- and is an important step in their own rehabilitation.

NATIONAL CIVIL DEFENSE DAY MESSAGE

Peace Through Preparedness has again been selected as the theme for National Civil Defense Day, December 7.

This is a time for us to assess our own preparedness and to impress upon the general public the importance of doing likewise

We must continue to stress the four points of preparedness:

1. Know the attack warning signals: steady 1 minute blast on horn, yellow alert, take cover, red alert, short blast on horn for 1 minute.

2. Study methods of protection from fallout.

3. Learn basic first aid and home emergency preparedness.

4. The use of CONELRAD -- 640 or 1240 on standard radio, for official information and instructions in emergencies.

Your State Director will present a Civil Defense Day message on radio and television stations.

The date will be the 19th anniversary of the attack on Pearl Harbor, an event which should make Americans forever conscious of the urgency of preparedness.

LATE SHOPPERS SALE AT ROCHESTER LIBRARY

The Women's Guild of the Rochester First Congregational Church will hold a "Late Shoppers Sale" in the Library on Saturday, December 10th, from 3 to 7 P.M. for the benefit of those who were unable to attend the Christmas sale last week. Aprons, children's knitted sweater sets, fancy bibs, gifts and novelties as well as stuffed toys will be displayed.

The annual sale and supper were well attended and very successful financially, and the Guild wishes at this time to thank all who were of help in any way. The proceeds are being used to make possible the installation of rest rooms, and later to do some painting in the vestry. In this project the Men's Brotherhood provides the labor with the Guild paying for supplies.

CHRISTMAS FAIR HELD

A very successful Christmas Fair was held last Tuesday in the parish hall of the Mattapoisett Congregational Church, sponsored by the Women's Community Guild. The hall was most attractively and gaily decorated with red and white striped booths, each with its own sign to advertise what it was selling. The tables set up for refreshments were decorated with greens and old fashioned candy jars filled with Christmas candy to carry out the theme of the fair, "An Old Fashioned Christmas". A most realistic fireplace was made from a piano turned backwards and it was from the two large red stockings hung on the fireplace that children could receive grabs.

In front of the fireplace was an oval braided rug, with a child's rocker on it and a toy stuffed dog to again carry out the theme of the fair. A background of greens on the stage provided an appropriate setting for Santa Claus, impersonated by Robert Fietz, who sat beside a sleigh filled with lollypops for the children who visited him. Santa Claus paid his visits to the fair between 10 and 11 A.M. and 2 to 3 P.M.

Many lovely and interesting items for Christmas giving and decorating were among the things on sale. Items included handmade gifts, children's toys and articles, aprons, Christmas decorations and ribbons, plants, hand painted articles, second hand jewelry, white elephants, homemade food and candy.

A coffee hour was held from 10 to 11:30 A.M., lunch served from 12 to 1:30 and tea was served in the afternoon. The fair ran from 10 A.M. to 4 P.M. Mrs. Robert Seeley was general chairman.
